

Part of

Ertel, P. K., & Ridgley, R. (Eds.). (2025). Educator reflections: The power of our stories. MT Open Press, Middle Tennessee State University. <https://doi.org/10.56638/mtopb00325>

About the Authors and Editors

Alphabetical order by last name

Bonnie Barksdale is an assistant professor at Middle Tennessee State University. She earned a B.S. in Early Childhood Education from Texas Woman's University, a Master of Curriculum and Instruction with an emphasis in Elementary Literacy from Texas Christian University and a Ph.D. in Reading Education from Texas Woman's University in 2018. Prior to joining MTSU, she worked in public school systems in Texas and Illinois as an elementary classroom teacher, literacy interventionist, literacy specialist, and literacy coach. Dr. Barksdale was recently elected as the incoming chair of 2024-2025 for the Williamson County Literacy Association for the local chapter of the Literacy Association of Tennessee. In addition to teaching undergraduate and graduate courses, she is an active researcher and presents her work at local, state, and national level conferences. Her current research focuses on writing instruction in primary grade classrooms, diverse classroom libraries, and adaptive teaching decisions during that instruction. Her research has been published in journals such as the Journal of Research in Childhood Education, Young Children, Tennessee Literacy Journal, and The Reading Teacher. Bonnie.Barksdale@mtsu.edu

Beverly Joan Boulware is a literacy specialist who has taught preschool children, elementary students, and middle grades learners. She is passionate about equipping the next generation to understand and use language through reading, classroom discussion, and creative writing. Her love of words and books are evidenced by her enthusiastic teaching, numerous presentations at educational conferences, and scholarly publications in literacy journals. Dr. Boulware received her Doctorate degree in Reading Education from Ball State University in Muncie, Indiana. She is a past president of the Organization of Teacher Educators in Literacy, The Kentucky Reading Association, and the Texas Association of Reading Professors. Presently, she is a professor of literacy education at Middle Tennessee State University in Murfreesboro, Tennessee, where she teaches graduate and undergraduate classes at the College of Education. Joan.Boulware@mtsu.edu

Christine Chen is the Founder, President, and current President of the Association for Early Childhood Educators Singapore (AECES). She has been in Early Childhood Education for 40 years. Currently, she serves on the Board of the National Institute of Early Childhood Development (NIEC-Singapore), as the Director of the Asia Pacific Regional Network in Early Childhood (ARNEC) and Child Research Net Asia (CRNA) and was the former President of the Association for Childhood Education International (ACEI- now CEI). Through the Singapore International Foundation, she worked in Vietnam with the National College of Education, Hanoi. Christine has been a volunteer most of her life. For all her voluntary and community services in Singapore, she was awarded the Public Service Award, the Pingat Bakti Masyarakat (PBM - 1994), and the Volunteer of the Year Award in 2010 from the President of Singapore. chch1225@gmail.com

Heather K. Dillard is an associate professor of Education at Middle Tennessee State University. After working as a middle and high school social studies teacher for 16 years, she has spent the last 11 years working with both undergraduate teacher candidates and graduate students in both master's and doctoral programs at MTSU. She teaches the Schools as Professional Learning Communities course in the Assessment, Learning, and School Improvement master's program that was designed by PLC at Work architect Robert Eaker. She co-authored the book Mindset for Success: The Powerful Partnership of Problem-Based Learning and PLC at Work and has authored and co-authored book chapters, research articles, and magazine articles primarily about PLC at Work. Heather regularly presents workshops on PLC concepts and consults with administrative teams at various schools to assist in their PLC development. She received her B.S. in Geoscience Education, M.S. in Curriculum and Instruction, and Ed.S. in Curriculum and Technology from MTSU, and her Ed.D. in Curriculum and Instruction from Tennessee State University. Heather.Dillard@mtsu.edu

Melody J. Elrod has been an educator for 29 years. She has taught in primary, middle, high school, undergraduate, and graduate-level classes, working in public, private, and corporate settings across North America. She has taught a variety of subjects, including mathematics, music, test preparation, teacher education, and research. She has degrees in music education, special education, mathematics education, and curriculum and instruction, and she earned her Ph.D. from the University of South Florida. As a faculty member of the Department of Mathematical Sciences at Middle Tennessee State University, Dr. Elrod's time is spent teaching foundational mathematics classes for undergraduate students. Though her focus is teaching, Dr. Elrod's primary research methodology is storytelling, focused on the way students, teachers, and administrators interact in and out of the classroom and the ways those interactions demonstrate pedagogical beliefs. Melody.Elrod@mtsu.edu

Pamela Kramer Ertel is a Professor of Education at Middle Tennessee State University in Murfreesboro, Tennessee. She is also the Program Coordinator of the Early Childhood Program. Dr. Kramer Ertel is a former professor and Dean of the College of Education at East Stroudsburg University. She is also a former president of Kappa Delta Pi (KDP), the International Honor Society in Education, as well as currently serving as a member of the Eleanor Roosevelt Chapter of KDP. Her research interests include teacher education, student engagement, trauma-informed schools, and adoption. She is also the Associate Editor of the International Journal of the Whole Child. Pamela.Ertel@mtsu.edu

Carla Swank Fox is an instructor in the Interactive Media Program in the College of Media and Entertainment and a doctoral student at Middle Tennessee State University. She is an accomplished writer, producer, technologist, social strategist, journalist, and podcaster, having worked professionally for local newspapers, strategic communications agencies, and national media outlets. Originally from Western Pennsylvania, Carla holds a B.A. in Communication with emphasis in Corporate Communication and Media Production and an M.S. in Organizational Studies and Leadership, both from Robert Morris University in Pittsburgh. She is currently pursuing an Ed.D. in Assessment, Learning, and Student Success—Higher Education Concentration at MTSU, where her research interests include generational social media usage and communication patterns, as well as the impacts of digital and social media on student success. Carla.Fox@mtsu.edu

Kenneth George brought his passionate belief in the importance of education and his 25+ years of experience in business into his role as Lecturer at the Jones College of Business at Middle Tennessee State University. He taught Business Management, Entrepreneurship, and Leadership classes while becoming a Certified Dale Carnegie Trainer. He was named Outstanding Dale Carnegie Trainer for the 2021–2022 academic year. Kenneth also works with the Pam Wright Chair of Entrepreneurship on various initiatives to provide more robust opportunities for current and prospective students. Kenneth earned his B.B.A. and M.B.A. from MTSU and now serves as a full-time Dale Carnegie Instructor for the University. In addition to his current role at MTSU, he co-manages Pickers Creek Winery in Lewisburg, Tennessee, with his brother and sister-in-law. Kenneth.George@mtsu.edu

Rehab Ghazal serves as the Associate Vice Provost for International Affairs at Middle Tennessee State University. She is a skilled Global Educator with vast experience in student engagement, corporate partnerships, and program evaluation and accreditation. Dr. Ghazal started her career as a fifth-grade teacher teaching English and ESL before transitioning to higher education. Her research and work have focused on promoting cultural understanding in educational settings and developing the professional skills of English as a Second Language (ESL) teachers and administrators. She has received funding from the Department of State, the Fulbright, Citigroup International, the American Embassy in Cairo, and the Boeing Company, among others. She works with the MTSU President's Office and different departments and colleges to develop strategic partnerships in the MENA region and create high-profile learning programs and services. Rehab.Ghazal@mtsu.edu

Cheryl Hitchcock has over 30 years of teaching experience, ranging from teaching preschool in her local school district to preparing pre-service teachers as an associate professor at Middle Tennessee State University. In addition to teaching, Dr. Hitchcock led the College of Education through successful accreditation and facilitated performance assessments for teacher candidates. After two years of retirement, she re-entered the profession as a dyslexia therapist in training.

James L. Hoot has had extensive teaching experience in public and private elementary schools and universities. During his 46-year career, he has served in several leadership positions (including two terms as President of the Association for Childhood Education International) in professional organizations, published/presented widely, and served on editorial boards of numerous professional education journals. He is currently an adjunct professor teaching international education courses for Framingham State University and professor emeritus at the State University of New York at Buffalo. jlhoot@gmail.com

Elissa Ledoux found her passion for academics despite beginning as a preschool dropout and graduated from Louisiana State University in 2013 with a B.S. in Mechanical Engineering. She earned her M.S. and Ph.D. in Mechanical Engineering from Vanderbilt University in 2016 and 2024, focusing on lower and upper limb rehabilitation robotics research, respectively. After working in industrial robotics from 2017-2018, she joined Middle Tennessee State University as a full-time lecturer for Mechatronics Engineering. Her research interests include both rehabilitation robotics and engineering education. Elissa.Ledoux@mtsu.edu

Seok Jeng Jane Lim is originally from Singapore and earned her Ph.D. in Elementary/Early Childhood Education from the University at Buffalo, The State University of New York. She has presented at national, state, and international conferences. Her area of research interest is the issue of bullying among the underrepresented population—refugee children, study abroad, and social-emotional development. She was on the executive board of the Association for Childhood Education International (ACEI) and currently the Tennessee ACEI. Dr. Lim is a professor in the Department of Elementary and Special Education at Middle Tennessee State University, where she has collaborated across the university on multiple grants. She also collaborated with colleagues from her department to create a model to provide a post-baccalaureate licensure pathway for high-quality teachers through the MT ALT program that enables them to meet Tennessee licensure requirements. Her major highlight is mentoring and working with students in her class to become a global world citizen by reaching out locally and impacting globally. Jane.Lim@mtsu.edu

Kendra Miller is originally from Murfreesboro, Tennessee. She has been teaching middle and high school level students since 2007 and is currently finishing her Master's in Curriculum and Instructional Design, with the intent of beginning her Ph.D. in Literacy in the Fall of 2025. She is a middle school history teacher at Providence Christian Academy in Murfreesboro, TN, and an independent researcher focusing on lowering cognitive load in Inquiry-based Learning. She presented her work, which won first place for graduate-level research at MTSU's Scholars Week in the Fall of 2024, at the National Council for Social Studies, the National Council for Geographic Education, All Middle Level Education, and the Tennessee Association of Independent Schools. She is a member of the Tennessee Council for Social Studies and a Sphere 100 Fellow with the Cato Institute. Millerkendra32@gmail.com

Patricia Nelson is a longtime educator in the state of Tennessee. She is a proud graduate of Middle Tennessee State University with B.S., M.Ed., and Ed.S. degrees. After spending over 30 years in elementary schools as a teacher and administrator, she retired from Wilson County Schools. Soon realizing she was not through with education, she applied as an adjunct at MTSU, guiding and evaluating student teachers during their last semester as undergraduates. Patricia.Nelson@mtsu.edu

Christina Oats has over 11 years of teaching experience and has served as an educator at elementary, middle, and college levels. She currently serves as a Rutherford County middle school English/Language Arts teacher, ELA Department Head, and adjunct professor. She completed her Ed.D. studies at Middle Tennessee State University, focusing on the emotional labor and burnout of teachers. Her research interests cover teacher retention, pre-service teaching, teacher professional development, and teachers' sense of belonging. She is a member of the National Council of Teachers of English, Association for Middle Level Education, International Literacy Association, and Literacy Association of Tennessee, and she currently serves as chair for her local chapter. oatsc@rcschools.net

Terrance Quinn, originally from Toronto, Canada, completed his Ph.D. in mathematics at Dalhousie University in Halifax. He has more than 30 years' experience teaching a wide range of courses in pure and applied mathematics, from freshman level to graduate school. Quinn has also taught mathematics for professions, and philosophy and history of mathematics. His publications are in applied mathematics, mathematics pedagogy, and foundations of science and economics. While at Ohio University Southern, Quinn received the Outstanding Professor of the Year Award from the Association of Universities and Regional Campuses of Ohio, as well as the Faculty of the Year award at the Southern campus. He went on to serve as Professor (2006–2018) and Chair (2006–2009) of Mathematical Sciences at Middle Tennessee State University. In 2018, Quinn obtained the rank of Professor Emeritus. He remains an active publishing author in the foundations of science, mathematics, economics, and education. Quinn is also co-founder of Bent on Futurology, a website project especially intended to help junior scholars make progress in foundations coherent with three leading ideas of Bernard Lonergan. Terrance.Quinn@mtsu.edu

Ernie Reynolds holds a Ph.D. in Creative Writing from Florida State University, an M.F.A. from the University of Tampa, and an M.A.T. from Belmont University. He currently serves as a lecturer in the English Department at Middle Tennessee State University. His short fiction has been read on NPR and published in Vanderbilt's Nashville Review, Hamline University's Waterstone Review, UNC's Smoky Blue Literary Arts Magazine, and elsewhere. Dr. Reynolds is a certified arborist and former NCAA coach as well. He splits time between Franklin and Monteagle, Tennessee. Ernie.Reynolds@mtsu.edu

Robyn Ridgley is a Professor and Associate Dean of the College of Education at Middle Tennessee State University. She joined the Early Childhood Education faculty at MTSU in 2005. She has served as the program coordinator for the Early Childhood Education program, graduate faculty member, and Chair of the Department of Elementary and Special Education. Her research has focused on factors impacting the completion of teacher preparation programs, strategies for preparing teachers and service providers who work in early childhood fields, and early intervention services for young children with disabilities. Prior to her work at MTSU, Robyn was a special education teacher in an elementary school in western Kentucky and a classroom teacher, home visitor, and administrator in an inclusive early childhood program in Nashville. During her doctoral program, she served as a research associate and project coordinator on several federally and state-funded projects focused on young children. Robyn.Ridgley@mtsu.edu

John Wallin is a professor of Computational and Data Science at Middle Tennessee State University, where he directs the Ph.D. program. Holding a Ph.D. in astrophysics, his research integrates astrophysics, machine learning, and data science, with projects ranging from crowd-sourced data analysis to augmented reality in education. He actively supports students in interdisciplinary research, fostering both their academic development and professional growth. Some of his recent work has focused on the future of AI in scholarship, ethical AI use, and the importance of mentorship in shaping successful, impactful careers in academia and beyond. John.Wallin@mtsu.edu